Avoid Suspicious Websites
When an unknown company's website is offering a deal that is too good to be true, it most likely is. Beware of businesses that have a lousy website design or multiple pop-up windows.

Don't Give Your Information to Strangers
This may seem like a no-brainer but it's easy to be fooled. Many times hackers will call pretending to be an official from your credit union or bank to ask you information about your account. DO NOT GIVE IT TO THEM. Instead hang up the phone and call your financial institution personally to report the fraudulent activity.

Only Open Emails from Known Addresses
The average amount of spam mail a business email receives in a day is 13. That is 13 opportunities for a hacker to steal your information and even give your computer malware. To protect yourself from spam mail make sure you have a spam folder set up through your email account.
